Round Rock takes 4 firsts in county livestock show

The 31st annual Williamson County Livestock Show was well underway at press time Friday afternoon — with judging in broilers, turkeys, rabbits and hogs already completed and judging in sheep and cattle left to go.

Pulling Hair

By LINDA SCARBROUGH

As I said last week, a few years ago I got interested, nay, fascinated with Williamson County dams. I did a little prying and a little gabbing and a little listening, and came to an unexpected conclusion: that the North Fork dam could pose two very real threats to Georgetown.

THE FIRST DANGER doesn't sound dangerous. Indeed, it sounds boring, but keep on reading anyway. It is weak septic tanks. As most of us know, Williamson County's most precious geological resource is a wonderfully bountiful, clean underground aquifer which runs through the county in a band roughly parallel and just west of Interstate 35. For the historical life of the county, people have depended upon the Edwards Aquifer. You came to Central Texas, you dug a well (or lived near a spring) and your family and farm could survive.

Oh, you may say that the aquifer will become antiquated and unnecessary once the big dam towers over the San Gabriel, and you could be right. But it is never wise to squander cheap, available resources. The point is that the aquifer is there and we should cherish and protect it for future hard times.

Unfortunately for the aquifer, it underlies the area of Williamson County's greatest housing and trailer developments, particularly around the future lake site. Ordinarily, this would not be a problem, but there is a hitch. The land from which the aquifer springs is as leaky as a faucet. And when you put lots of houses and trailers on that land, they are going to leak a lot of garbage (to be polite) into the underground aquifer.

"VERY LITTLE WATER is ever left standing on the Edwards recharge zone," says rancher Jack Barnes, whose business happens to be the hydrology of underground aquifers. "The land in west Williamson County is full of cracks and crevices and underneath are hundreds of caverns and caves. The water runs straight through this porous soil — almost as if it were a honeycomb — into the underground stream. This is how the aquifer is recharged, usually by rain or by streams."

But an ominous note is added by Dr. Chock Woodruff, a research geologist at the University of Texas Bureau of Economic Geology. "That area can also be easily

THE GRAND CHAMPION hog award went to Monte Eckert of Round Rock. The Reserve Champion award went to Blaine Faykus of Taylor.

The Grand Champion pen of broilers went to Randy Hashem of Round Rock. The Reserve Champion award went to Nora Warren of Round Rock.

Round Rock also took first place in the turkey competition.

Nora Warren took the Grand Champion award while Blaine Faykus of Taylor took the Reserve Champion spot.

FIRST PLACE in the rabbit show went to Gary Burklund of Round Rock.

The sheep judging and cattle judging were scheduled to be finished Friday evening.

The sale of animals is scheduled at the show barn in San Gabriel Park in Georgetown on Saturday at 1 p.m.

The market animals, raised by county 4-H and FFA students, to be sold will be 20 steers, 36 hogs, 36 lambs, 13 pens of rabbits, 20 pens of broilers and 10 turkeys.

THE HIGHEST placing animals in each division will have the opportunity to be auctioned off first.

The sale gives 4-H and FFA youngsters a chance to earn money to finance other livestock projects and save money for college.

ALL COUNTY residents are urged to attend the sale Saturday and support these young people in county FFA Chapters and 4-H Clubs.

PAULA BAUGHMAN, a 5th grader from Cedar Park, poses with one of the rabbits she raised in a 4-H Club project. It's hard to tell who is more nervous, Paula or the rabbit.

Donation from HEB answer to challenge

By WILBUR CALLAWAY

A project which began as a dream several months ago took a step closer to reality Wednesday evening when Larry Rosenblad, local HEB Grocery Store director, handed a $5,000 check to Georgetown City Councilman Carl Doering during a dinner meeting at the Georgetown Inn.

The $5,000 marks a good start toward the $22,500 needed in order to build an Olympic-sized swimming pool and adjoining facilities northwest of Georgetown. An original $45,000 was needed but Texas Crushed Stone and Georgetown Railroad recently donated half of the amount ($22,500) and challenged the citizens of Georgetown to come up with the other half.

HEB is the first to meet the challenge although Doering, the ringleader behind the push to get the pool, said he has at least six other organizations in Georgetown who have expressed an interest and desire to participate in the project.

"THE ORIGINAL IDEA was to have an indoor teenage center," Doering says, "but we could not get the necessary funds from the government for such a project so we had to change the plans to an outdoor facility."

The Bureau of Outdoor Recreation gave the City of Georgetown $130,000 and the City came up with another $122,500 from revenue sharing funds. This would have been enough to build a 60 foot by 82 foot pool with a separate 30x35 diving area.

But E. B. Snead, owner of Texas Crushed Stone, felt that it was senseless to go with the small pool when another $45,000 would be enough to enlarge the pool to 60x164 feet, an Olympic-sized facility, and thus came up with the offer of $22,500 toward the goal.

"There will be the pool, which will be four feet deep the entire length, plus a 12-foot deep diving area with one-meter and three-meter boards," Doering says, "plus we'll have bathhouses, dressing rooms, concession stands, fencing, lighting, parking, two concrete slabs 90x56 feet in size for basketball, volleyball, roller-skating or outdoor dancing, and auxiliary heating. All this will cost about $372,300."

DOERING FEELS there'll be no trouble in raising the rest of the money needed for the project and hopes to have the specifications drawn up and bids put out in January. As to a completion date, early summer is an optimistic goal.

"We just wanted to have something for the teenagers of Georgetown, Florence, Walburg, Jarrell, Liberty Hill, Leander, Andice and the surrounding area. A pool of this size should take care of our needs for a long time to come," Doering says.

"We would have liked to have had an indoor pool," Doering says.

Citizens may oppose plans to cut trees

The Georgetown Planning and Zoning Committee will meet Tuesday night at 7:30 in the City Council chambers and several interested citizens are expected to be there to confront officials from McDonald's in regard to the cutting down of several big trees at the intersection of Highway 81 and Williams Drive.

McDonald's officials plan to build one of their chain hamburger stores at the site and have indicated they will clear the lot, which includes the trees, although they have encountered considerable opposition from local citizens who do not want the trees cut down.

Elvin Gentry named Citizens State president

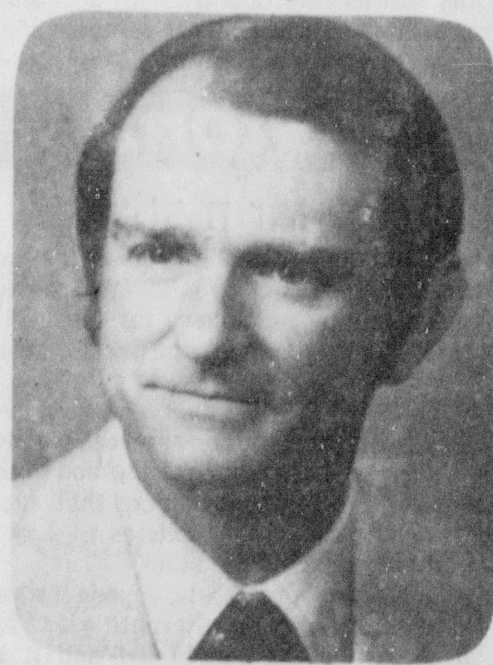

The election of Elvin Lee Gentry as president and chief executive officer of Citizens State Bank was announced Friday by Jay C. Sloan, chairman of the board.

Gentry joined the Georgetown bank as executive vice president in August. He has more than twenty years banking experience and holds a graduate certificate in commercial banking from the American Institute of Banking. In 1972 he graduated from the Southwestern Graduate School of Banking at Southern Methodist University in Dallas and has been designated a Certified Commercial Lender by the Commercial Lending Division of the American Bankers Association.

Gentry and his wife, Mary, natives of Nocona, have lived in and been associated with banks in Fort Worth and Bay City and Shawnee, Oklahoma.

Citizens State Bank of Georgetown is the flagship bank of First Texas Bancorp., Inc., of Georgetown, a Central Texas bank holding company which, in addition to it, is composed of the First National Bank, Round Rock; First National Bank, Belton; First National Bank, Copperas Cove; First National Bank, Lampasas and American State Bank, Killeen.

Sloan, who is also president of First Texas

ELVIN GENTRY

Bancorp., Inc., added, "We are very pleased to have Gentry in this capacity, Executive Officer of our Citizens State Bank. He is not only a valuable officer on our management team, but he will play a major role in community leadership in Georgetown."

STAN BARBER'S CAR

I just took a ride in a car which has a dual fuel system.

At the flick of a switch the car runs on either gasoline or alcohol.

I couldn't tell any difference.

THEN WHAT'S ALL this panic about an impending fuel shortage?

To a professional observer, the right now race to discover new fuels or to reapply old ones is the most exciting competition since the invention of the airplane.

I'm fascinated by government and industry's efforts to develop nuclear energy, solar energy, underground steam, the winds and the tides.

But most intriguing are the efforts by individual backyard or basement tinkers to devise and develop engines that will run on water, on garbage, on chicken droppings.

Stan Barber's car runs on alcohol. This Ft. Smith, Ark., bridge builder has been devoting his spare time to equipping a car with two tanks — one for alcohol, one for gasoline.

The advantages are obvious. Alcohol can be made from almost anything — including city sewage.

IT WORKS ALTOGETHER as efficiently as gasoline.

And no noxious carbon-monoxide comes out of the exhaust!

If it is clean burning, power efficient, cost efficient — then why don't we all switch over now?

The obvious drawback is that the average gasoline station has no alcohol to supply you.

There is nothing new about this. We've known for a generation that we could run automobiles just as well on alcohol. The thing is that while oil was three dollars a barrel we didn't have to.

Now refined gasoline costs approximately the same as distilled alcohol.

Barber has driven his dual fuel car 80,000 miles on gasoline — then another 50,000 miles on alcohol. The engine, dismantled, showed no excessive wear.

In fact, because alcohol burns cooler there is less wear than with gasoline.

MILES PER GALLON — almost identical.

Acceleration — identical.

The only significant difference between the Barber application and others is that his alcohol bypasses the carburetor and goes from a pre-heater tank as vapor directly into the firing chambers, making the engine more fuel efficient.

Cost of converting a car to burn both fuels: approximately three hundred dollars.

But car makers are spending that much on emission controls — and alcohol discharges no objectionable emissions.

This is why the first application of the Barber system is being made in fork lift trucks.

A converted fork lift truck at Whirlpool Corporation develops equivalent power with neither heat nor pollution emission.

The advantage for vehicles operated indoors is obvious.

And a corporation does not have to wait for filling stations to stock alcohol. It can purchase it in tank car lots for less than gasoline.

No farm strike?

As the December 14 deadline nears for the proposed Farmer's Strike, which would mean not planting a crop or buying any machinery for the 1978 season, it appears that enthusiasm for the drastic action is waning.

IN HOUSTON, WHERE the Texas Farm Bureau is holding its state convention this week, leaders openly opposed the strike as the proper method to obtain parity prices for the farmers, saying that such a move would be contrary to the policies of the individual farmer and rancher of the state.

Well, those farm leaders who oppose the strike ought now to come up with an alternate plan. Everything else but a strike has been tried and it all failed. American agriculture, across the board — even peanuts — is in tough circumstances.

We'll admit that not planting any crop at all is drastic — one farmer complained that his cattle would starve if he didn't plant any grain. Of course he should plant grain and so should all the other grain growers. Cotton producers should produce cotton, and so on. What they ought to do, this 2 by 4 weekly opines, is simply cut back about one third for one year and see what happens. We might not have enough grain to keep the Russians from out-dealing us again; and, if the old law of supply and demand still has meaning, prices on farm products should soar. And, let it be pointed out, prices to the farmers could double without materially affecting the price of food at the supermarkets.

A FINE DALLAS NEWS editorial, which we ran in the Thursday issue, pointed it up truly: "the wheat growing farmer received exactly 2.6 cents as his part for producing the stuff that the baker makes a loaf selling for 36 cents at your grocery store. Other farm products such as vegetable shortening and milk cost 3.2 cents. The balance of 29.9 cents went for flour milling, transportation, baking, merchandising and all the other steps required to get the bread to your table." That $20 cotton shirt you buy has about 10 cents worth of good Williamson County cotton in it. And so on.

You tell us just what it will take to get the farmer a fair deal. We say it will take nothing short of a sensible scheme to produce just enough to come out on the best end of the supply and demand picture.

Santa to make it

Farm strike or no, Santa is coming to Georgetown, first this Saturday and then one week later. He'll be around most of those two days, mainly at the main business areas throughout the town.

HE'LL HAVE CANDY (compliments of HEB) and advice for the children and he may be able to pass a few good words on to the mamas and papas. We should have a story of his goings and comings on the front page of this issue — with the dates corrected from the Thursday paper — so, check it out and plan to take your kiddoes to see the merry old gentleman. This is an opportunity that comes only in December!

First Cat denies rise in mice

By Louise Sweeney

The Washington Star reported recently that the Carter administration has been waging a war against White House mice, which have been found everywhere from the Oval Office to the flowerpots of the East Wing. Mouse traps have been installed on presidential order — but the following dispatch suggests another solution.

Washington

Allegations of an increase in the White House mouse count are totally untrue, according to a statement released by First Cat Misty Malarkey Ying Yang.

The presidential Siamese cat vigorously denied media reports of a mouse boom in the White House. On the contrary, Yang said, there has been an escalation in mice strikes as a result of a total reorganization of his rodent patrol. He substantiated his remarks about the subsequent decline in mice crime with indications that the cheddar, and camembert districts of the White House kitchen now are secure.

Yang made his statements in a wide-ranging interview given from the chandelier of the East Room. (As the White House press office explained in a briefing before the interview, Siamese cats are traditionally fond of heights and it has become protocol to conduct interviews there.)

Yang appeared poised and confident, his dark brown mask grave and his blue eyes bright as he fielded questions from the floor. An occasional switch of his tail indicated displeasure with certain questions, and there was considerable lashing of the tail on the sensitive issue of whether he had ever climbed the damask drapes in the Blue Room. Sources close to the 2½-year-old sealpoint Siamese later revealed that he had been declawed before arrival in the White House, apparently making the climb impossible.

Yang was also cool to questions focusing on whether he had slighted visiting heads of state by appearing only at the first White House state dinner Feb. 14 for Mexican President Lopez Portillo and snubbing later dignitaries.

On the more delicate issue of whether there is a White House sandbox, Yang twitched his whiskers and growled "no comment." Asked for clarification on that statement, White House press secretary Jody Powell tugged at his vest and finally said, "It would be inappropriate for us to comment on that at this time." Aides to Mr. Powell later suggested that since Yang rarely leaves the mansion, it may be surmised that appropriate steps have been taken in "the family quarters" where Yang lives with his small companion, Amy Carter, age 10.

It is Amy Carter who named him, and who refers to him as Misty. When asked how he preferred to be addressed, First Cat took a leaf from presidential assistant Hamilton Jordan's notebook and said, "My friends call me Misty, but you can call me Yang."

Yang also was asked whether it troubles him that certain felines, namely Morris of catfood commercial acclaim, were more famous than he. He was also asked if he'd considered endorsing such products. Yang, who eats an unspecified brand of dry cat food as a daily diet, said he refused to dignify that question with a reply.

A high-level White House source later noted that Yang, before stalking off, mentioned his ancestors, an illustrious line of royal cats who guarded the palace in their native Siam. "Those of us with breeding," he reportedly meowed, "do not use our high government connections to endorse commercial products."

Wolves placed on endangered species list

The timber or gray wolf is an interesting creature, but if you're thinking about obtaining one of your own, you'd better think twice.

The Texas Parks and Wildlife Department recently placed the gray wolf and the Mexican wolf on its endangered species list, thus making it a misdemeanor to take, possess, transport, export or receive these animals. First conviction is punishable by a fine of $100 to $200, with subsequent convictions ranging much higher. It is also a violation of federal law to transport a wolf across state lines in violation of state law.

The only legal possessors of wolves are zoos, circuses and biological researchers who have obtained a scientific permit issued by the department for scientific study.

Gray or Mexican wolves should not be confused with the coyote (sometimes called a prairie wolf), which ranges over all parts of Texas, or with the Texas red wolf, which has been on the state endangered list for some time and is found only in Chambers and Jefferson Counties.

AUSTIN NOTEBOOK

By Bill Kidd

AUSTIN — "Taxes." What a singularly ugly word. But so necessary to the operation of government.

Texans have been more fortunate than denizens of other regions in that regard, since Texas ranks 39th in per capita state and local taxes.

But how long can that situation last?

Indefinitely, Gov. Dolph Briscoe says — and he's seized on the theme of "no new taxes" (and who can be against that?) as the base of his political efforts.

ON THAT ISSUE, he's not likely to get any disagreement. Indeed, his major primary opponent, Attorney General John Hill, also has come out publicly that he, too, sees no need for any new taxes.

And Comptroller Bob Bullock, another no-new-taxes man, should have been able to dance with delight after signing the 1977 annual financial report for the State — since he could write that the fiscal year ending Aug. 31 "was, again, a record year" for revenues.

However, as Bullock also noted, it was also a record year for expenditures.

Texas ended up the year with money in the bank and cattle out west, as folks used to say (when cattle prices were higher).

Revenues and an opening cash balance amounting to $9 billion allowed expenditures of $7.02 billion — leaving $1.98 billion on hand, $336,000,000 more than the cash balance at the beginning of the fiscal year.

THAT WOULD APPEAR to indicate that when lawmakers return in 1979, they'll find another surplus on hand.

But where are the surpluses of yesteryear? Eaten up by those economic predators known as inflation and increased demand.

While the percentage of increase in the State's budget has slowed in recent years, the total dollar amount has gone up.

State spending rose 10.1 per cent for fiscal 1974 compared to the year before — amounting to $4,019,400,000 in spending.

The next year, the increase was 21.5 per cent — for a total $5,377,300,000.

For fiscal 1976, the increase was 15.4 per cent — and the total was $6,203,500,000.

And for the last fiscal year, the increase was 6.5 per cent — with a total $6,606,000,000.

WITH CONTINUING INFLATION, continuing population growth, and continuing demand for more services, that budget isn't likely to decrease in the years ahead.

Thus far, Texas' healthy economy and increased prices for oil and gas have allowed the general sales tax (the biggest money raiser for the State) and mineral severance taxes to grow — and to cover the increasing expenditures.

But the House Study Group, made up of House members who have helped decide on State spending, warns that some future members will eventually have to decide on new taxes — or increasing some old ones.

HSG Chairman Rep. John Bryant, Dallas, warns that if oil and gas reserves "decline drastically" or the economy "takes a nose dive", new sources of revenue will have to be used.

When that unhappy day comes, however, Bryant says, lawmakers will have a number of options available — including personal and corporate income taxes, an oil refinery tax, and higher severance taxes.

Indeed, Bryant concludes, if some of those alternatives were adopted, property or sales taxes could be lowered — or even abolished.

NONE OF THAT is likely to happen soon, however — since few folks are anxious to be remembered as sponsors of tax legislation — unless it lowers or removes or reforms some tax.

As things now stand, Texas will enter the decade of the 1980s without any new or increased old taxes — but the question is whether that will be true in the 1990s.

The answer, most likely, is no.

But for the next few years, Texans should enjoy their good luck — while remembering it can't last forever.

The Treasury Department has a special fund to which people claiming to have defrauded the government on taxes can contribute anonymously. It now has $3.5 million in it.

GTE vehicles change colors

Beginning immediately, the familiar two-tone white and gold coloring of the General Telephone Company's vehicles, which has been in use since 1961, will be yielding to a new combination featuring silver gray, with blue and white markings.

R. E. Phelps, Vice President-General Manager in League City, said all new vehicles placed in service by the Company will bear the new color and markings. Vehicles bearing the white and gold colors will not be repainted solely for the purpose of conforming to the new color scheme, but only if they require complete repainting for other reasons.

The new color and marking design was adopted following a two-year study, he said. The new colors are an extension of the already familiar blue and gray color combination which appears in many usages throughout the GTE companies — on letterheads and other reprinted matter, signs and advertising as the "official" GTE color combination.

"A principal consideration in making the change," he said, "was an economic one, since the new vehicles will come from their producers in a single color — the basic silver gray — instead of the two-tone combination of white and gold, which obviously was more expensive. The tri-color effect of the new scheme will be obtained by the application of reflective striping, which can be readily applied locally with special adhesives."

The new color combination, Phelps added, in addition to affording a goal of single color painting economy and simplified decal marking with clean and simple striping, provides a highly distinctive fresh "look" to Company vehicles, and at the same time, because of the highly reflective quality of the markings, retains a high degree of visibility in all weather conditions for recognition and safety.

"Our new vehicle color and markings standards," he said, "are contemporary, clean and simple, with a bearing of leadership and quality."

The new design emphasizes the GTE symbol, reflecting the relationship of the individual operating company to the overall GTE organization and its status as a leader in global telecommunications, electronics and entertainment products.

Some 30,000 GTE telephone company vehicles will be carrying the "new look" when the conversion program is complete.

Talent inventory sought for women

The Georgetown Women's Political Caucus is sponsoring a talent drive to identify women who are interested in serving on Georgetown City Commissions.

All women are urged to identify interests and educational training, plus voluntary or job experience which will benefit the various city commissions.

When commission vacancies occur, a list of interested women will be sent to the appropriate people, who appoint candidates to the various bodies.

All women are urged to complete the "Talent Inventory Program" form which accompanies this article and return it to Kathy Barrett, 512 Myrtle Street, Georgetown, 78626.

Barrett is the vice-chair for legislation in the Georgetown area while Bonnie Buckley serves as vice-chair for communication.

The local caucus was started this summer and quite a few people are involved, with a good response from local women who have been contacted. Georgetown is just one of several local communities to start such programs across the state.

School bond election in Leander

Leander school district residents were to go to the polls Saturday, December 3, to vote for or against the sale of $5 million in school bonds to finance construction of a new high school and athletic facilities.

Voting was scheduled from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m. Saturday.

IF THE BONDS are approved, the tax assessment for area residents would go from $1.53 to $1.97 per $100 of assessed valuation. The assessment ratio would remain 79 percent of market value.

The district, which had just 859 students in 1970, has grown to the present enrollment of 2,300. Projections, based partially on new housing starts in the area, show that the district will have 3,000 students in three years.

Leander voters have turned down two bond issues in the past two years.

IN 1975, the district completed a major property revaluation and in December of that year a $1.8 million bond issue was defeated 3-1.

In March of 1976 the voters defeated a $577,000 bond proposal.

The present bond issue budget allows $4,130,000 for a new high school including architect and engineering fees.

According to a pamphlet put out by the school board, the school would be designed for 1,200 students initially but could be expanded later to include 2,000 students.

THE HIGH SCHOOL would have a music center for band and choir and a vocational center for home-making, business and vocational training.

The bond proposal includes two gymnasiums with complete facilities for boys and girls and a dining area complete with stage and dressing rooms.

The school board is looking for a 50 acre site for the new high school.

ATHLETIC FACILITIES include a football field, with seating for 5,000, lights and a baseball track.

The athletic complex—football field, stadium, baseball field, track, concession stands and restrooms—is budgeted at $385,000.

The bond issue also allows $150,000 for site improvements, including parking lots and sidewalks.

IT ALSO INCLUDES $385,000 for the purchase of a 50 acre site for the high school and $60,000 for a sewage treatment plant for the school.

Voters who are not sure which precinct they live in can find out by calling Leander Superintendent Joe Ward's office at 259-1113.

Bank adds county in expansion

The San Antonio Branch of the Federal Reserve Bank of Dallas will expand its boundaries, effective January 1, 1978. The expansion adds Burnet and Williamson Counties, transferred from the Dallas Reserve Bank Territory, and Bastrop and Refugio Counties, transferred from the Houston Reserve Bank Branch Territory.

The primary reasons for the change are to improve service to member banks and to reduce expenses to the Federal Reserve System. The transfer should improve the check collection process of the commercial banks in the area by reducing the transportation expense for handling checks, reducing float and accelerating the return of items.

The improved check collection will be accomplished by including banks in the Federal Reserve territory where they do the majority of their business. The affected counties are located in major trade areas of Austin and Corpus Christi, now being served by the San Antonio branch to either the Dallas or Houston Centers.

Entomology Notes

BY BOB GLOTT, JR.

A small "insect" has been of considerable concern to many small grain producers in the Williamson-Milam County area.

This small mite is no larger than a pin head; it has a dark colored body with orange legs. The winter grain mite feeds primarily at night, however, on cloudy days this insect can be readily be found around the base of the plant or on the leaves.

WHEN INSPECTING small grains for this pest you should dig a trench in the soil (about 2 inches deep) next to the drill row and look for the mites at the base of the plants and in the soil. Remember these "insects" are small and resemble a spider in appearance.

Although winter grain mites attack wheat, oats, and barley, oats have been the hardest hit in our area. Damage from winter grain mites is why characteristic in that grey colored areas will start showing up as spots in the field. The tips of the leaves will die as damage progresses.

Once distinct grey colored areas start showing up and mites are found, control is in order.

TIMING of chemical applications to control the winter grain mite is extremely important in achieving adequate control. Since these mites feed primarily at night and more to below the soil and around the base of the plants during the day; early morning applications will be most effective. Chemicals cleared for the winter grain mite are as follows:

A. Disulfoton (Di-Syston) (6 lbs.) 1/3-2/3 pint/acre - cleared for wheat only. Do not graze treated fields after application. Do not repeat application within 30 days.

B. Methyl parathion (4 lbs.) 1/2 pint/acre - 15 days waiting period for grazing.

C. Paration (4 lbs.) 1/2 pint/acre - 15 days waiting period for grazing.

Since we have recently received a little rain small grains should be able to tolerate higher levels of winter grain mites. Most severe damage was noticed on terraces where water stress was more pronounced. There is a good chance that these mites will not cause additional problems if we continue to receive adequate rainfall.

Don't bring your insect problems indoors.

Many of you are bringing in your houseplants to protect them from the harsh winter. An "alcohol bath" will be valuable in preventing insect damage. Use a cotton swab soaked with alcohol and go over the entire plant. This will take care of most foliage pests. Wash off the bottoms of the planters and rinse the saucer thoroughly to get rid of hitchhiking crickets, roaches, and pillbugs.

AGRICULTURE COMMISSIONER Reagan V. Brown (center) presents a Texas Family Land Heritage Program certificate to Mrs. Don Scarbrough, Georgetown, during ceremonies in San Antonio Nov. 16. Also on hand to congratulate the Williamson County landowner is San Antonio Mayor Lila B. Cockrell (right).

Clara Scarbrough recognized as historic land owner

Mrs. Don Scarbrough of Georgetown was one of a number of Texas citizens who were on hand to accept Texas Family Land Heritage certificates as owners of land that have been continuously used in their family for more than 100 years.

Mrs. Scarbrough's property came to her through her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Stearns of Taylor, Stearns, who died in 1975, was a pioneer pecan producer in this county and developed the orchard on the San Gabriel, about 2 miles west of Circleville, that was an outstanding producer for more than half a century.

In all, 1,179 properties, farms and ranches, have not been recognized by the Texas Department of Agriculture since the program began in 1974. To qualify, a Texas farm or ranch must have been in continuous production at the hands of one family for a century or more.

Agriculture Commissioner Reagan V. Brown and his wife Gladys were on hand to present the honor certificates along with San Antonio mayor Lila B. Cockrell, who welcomed the honorees, family, and friends to San Antonio.

"We are particularly proud to be able to recognize these families," Commissioner Brown commented. "At a time when agricultural producers in the state are facing severe economic problems which are forcing many to give up their way of life, these people stand as an example of perseverance and hope."

"They demonstrate the strength and durability which has made Texas agriculture one of the leaders in providing food and fiber for our nation and the world," Brown stated.

The 1977 honorees will also be included in the Texas Family Land Heritage Registry, Vol. IV, which chronicles individual family histories.

Water Resources Dept. inspects Texas dams

Under authority of the Texas Water Code, the Texas Department of Water Resources has the responsibility of inspecting dams and reservoirs in the state to protect the public from the consequences of a failure of a dam.

Texas' dam safety program dates back to 1969 when the Texas Water Rights Commission initiated this program to insure that dams are constructed and maintained in such a manner that they will not become public hazards. The Department of Water Resources now has that responsibility since the three statewide water agencies were merged into one agency on September 1 this year.

Harvey Davis, executive director of the Department, states there are 4,653 known dams in the state which impound more than 50 acre-feet of water or exceed 25 feet in height. With the budget for dam safety provided in the Legislature's appropriation for this purpose, the Department conducts an intensive and professionally competent dam safety inspection program.

The Department's program includes all dams in the state except those owned by the federal government.

All dams impounding more than 200 acre-feet of water are inspected on a periodic schedule. Dams impounding less than 200 acre-feet are inspected at least once if a water-use permit is required, or upon request, or in response to a complaint.

More frequent inspections are made if structural deficiencies or the location of the dam warrant such action.

When a dam is found to be in need of repair, the owner is notified and directed to make the necessary repairs. Construction plans for those repairs and modifications must be approved by the Department prior to beginning construction.

If the owner of the dam willfully fails to comply with the order within the 30-day period following the effective date of the order, he is liable to a penalty of not more than $1,000 a day for each day he continues to violate the rules.

In 1976 and 1977, 62 dams were reported in need of repair or alteration. All of these dams have been or are currently being repaired.

Protection of the public from the consequences of a failure of a dam is of paramount importance and requires the highest degree of professional engineering performance in the design and construction of a dam.

The foundation of the dam must be stable under all conditions and capable of carrying the weight of the structure. The dam must impound its reservoir water without undue strain and be safe under all conditions. Its spillways and appurtenant works must be adequately built to withstand the ravages of floodwaters, internal pressures, wear, corrosion, erosion, and stress. The reservoir area must be water-retentive and free from the possibilities of dangerous slides.

Nothing in the Department rules on dam safety shall be construed to relieve an owner or operator of a dam or reservoir of the legal duties, obligations, or liabilities incident to ownership or operation, states Davis.

JANE REYNOLDS

Rev. McKinney's Thanksgiving story sounds like real pioneer living off the land, except that there were no Indian raids. He went to spend the holidays with his daughter and her family, the Leifestes, on their ranch near Castell. On Thanksgiving day, they had wild turkey shot on their own ranch. Their son Larry, home from college, went out Thursday morning and killed a young buck. Friday they had venison. Friday his son-in-law went out to feed the cattle, took a shot gun along, and brought back nine quail. Saturday they had fried quail and quail pie for dinner.

Holidays are great here, for there are more visitors than usual. In the Guest Book: H. B. and Mala Morgan from Austin; Mrs. J. A. Prewitt, Austin; Gaille Smith; Pauline Steele of Kansas City, Mo., to see Elizabeth Taylor; Clara Hughes of Dallas and Jack Pullen of Chester, Texas, to see Mary Wilkes Thomson; Bonnie Faught, Nancy Papke, and Edy and Chip Faught, all of Austin, to see Bea Atkinson; Mrs. Pearl Booth of Austin, Hamilton Wright and Mr. and Mrs. Willard Kelton, all of Abilene, to see Mr. and Mrs. Stephenson; Dr. and Mrs. Strauss Atkinson of Plainview to see Bea Atkinson; Calvin and Bobby Black of Bremond, Texas, to see Ethel Weaver; Mrs. Eva Makemson, Austin; Miss Ruby Turpin, Austin; Mr. and Mrs. F. Daniels of Belton to see Mrs. Phinzy; Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Cabiness of Georgetown; Mr. and Mrs. Crowder of Dallas and Ed N. Sowell of Melbourne, Fla., to see Mrs. Sowell; Elizabeth Ulbright, Chicago; H. W. Ulbright, Round Rock; Sherry Matthews, Austin; Linda Kerr, Austin; Mr. and Mrs. Page, Georgetown.

On Sunday afternoon Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bass of Temple visited Mrs. George McCrary. Mrs. Ball is a niece of Mrs. McCrary. Dorothy Standlee and her sister, Mrs. E. J. Howard of Victoria, have been having a wonderful visit together for the past few days. The sounds from their table at mealtime prove it. Mrs. Lochridge's guest at Lunch was Mrs. Mollie Sanders of Georgetown. Mrs. McMahon's luncheon guest was her daughter, Mrs. Virginia Rushton of San Antonio. George Taylor and Miss Mattie Loventhal got into a conversation while waiting for the elevator and discovered that this is a day to celebrate for both of them, but for different reasons. It was her birthday and the anniversary of George's parents' wedding. The same year, too! Mattie was born the very day that George's parents married, thirty nine years ago. Mrs. Effie Labensky's visitors last week included her great-grandchildren, Walter and Susan Robbins of Denton, Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Robbins of Baytown, Mrs. Jewel Ransom of Fort Worth, and Mrs. Mittie Ransom of Jonah. Mrs. Myrtle Miles' granddaughter, Mrs. Scott Sealy of Bethany, Okla. came to see her. Mrs. Lela Mae Ischy reports that all her visitors were cousins; Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Ahlberg of San Antonio, Miss Ida Peters and Miss Alice Peters, both of Austin, and Clair Sudduth of Georgetown. Mrs. Anna Mae Greene and Mr. and Mrs. Halley Allcorn of Georgetown had Thanksgiving dinner with Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Lackey of Georgetown. Pearl Graves and Annie Bonds were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Clement and Miss Norma Jean Clement for Thanksgiving dinner.

The Christmas Fund for the employees is the oldest tradition at the Wesleyan. When the doors opened September 10, 1962, one of the policies was an explicit "no tipping allowed". The Personnel Policies stated then, and still state, "Any employee guilty of accepting tips or gifts, or soliciting such, is subject to dismissal." The residents realized that this policy is eminently fair, for there are many employees who are not in close contact with the residents, (cooks, for instance) but whose work makes a great contribution to the comfort and well-being of the residents. These employees are never likely to be remembered by gifts or tips. In fairness to all, the House Council decided to have one central gift-giving time and remember everyone, to collect from the residents a voluntary fund to be distributed fairly among all the employees as an expression of appreciation for their work throughout the year. The money was collected by the House Council, divided, and handed to the employees over the counter. When Wayne and I planned our first Christmas here, in consultation with the Council, we decided to host a party, inviting all the residents and all the employees and their families, and distribute the fund at that time. This party is a great scene. The Dining Room is full to capacity, we meet the employees' families, and their families meet the people whom they have heard about all year. The money is still collected and divided by the House Council, and there is great joy in the sharing of it. This year's collection is coming along well.

Sweetbriar News

November, another busy month behind us. The month began with a group of ladies from several sororities, who came out to sing for us accompanied by Amielle Ischy. They served homemade cookies. It was truly an enjoyable evening for everyone.

The barber service for our residents has been changed from the first Wednesday evening to the first Thursday morning. In this way more of our men will be able to take advantage of this service.

A heartfelt "thank you" goes out to the Fidelis Class of the Crestview Baptist Church who brought to us fresh oranges and grapefruit from the valley in order to help our patients enjoy Thanksgiving. We truly appreciate this remembrance for our patients.

Vince Skero gave a nice slide presentation concerning missionary work he had done in Mexico. It was interesting to see the beautiful scenery of another county and to hear about the missionary work done there. We thank you for a very interesting presentation.

Our November Birthday Party was sponsored by the WMU Society of the First Baptist Church. Special numbers were presented by children of the members. The ladies led the group in singing some old time favorites. Refreshments were served.

On November 19 the Victory Singers, a quartet from the Seventh Day Adventist Church in Austin, presented a devotion in song. It was a meaningful afternoon.

The Assembly of God Church has been coming regularly to our nursing home on Wednesday night to lead a Gospel Singing with our patients. The programs are planned by Mrs. Juanita Taylor. Last Wednesday evening Mrs. Taylor's daughter, Rita Gay, a student of Angelo State University, San Angelo, was guest soloist. We want to thank these interested persons who dedicate their time to ministering to our residents by word of song.

We have a need for coat hangers. Any that are donated will be put to good use.

At Sweetbriar's Resident Council meeting on November 18, upcoming events for December were previewed. The residents then had a free discussion period in which they were encouraged to share with the staff any complaints or suggestions they might have. Our next Resident Council meeting will be held December 30 at 2:30 p.m. Friends and relatives of our residents are invited to attend this meeting and participate in the discussions.

Film to show at Leander

The Dr. Clyde M. Narramore Christian film, "As the Twig is Bent" will be shown at Leander Assembly of God, Highway 183, Leander, Sunday, Dec. 11, at 6 p.m.

The 52-minute color motion picture film was produced by the Narramore Foundation in deep concern for Christian homes of our nation. It is thoroughly biblical.

"As the Twig is Bent" presents ten things parents can do to help meet the basic and emotional needs of their children. "Approximately 35 persons appear in this film, depicting the illustrations for all ten biblical principles," Pastor D. A. Calvin said.

According to Pastor Calvin, an evaluation form is distributed in which persons are asked to indicate to themselves how well they are meeting these ten needs. An opportunity to request a free booklet is also given.

"Every person, parent or not, should see this Bible-based film," urged Pastor Calvin, "for it is designed to help you and your home. ALL members of the family should see it, regardless of denomination. Admission is free."

New church to organize

The local members of the Seventh Day Adventist Church are taking the first steps to the organization of a church in Georgetown.

A temporary meeting place will be at Stonehaven Center beginning December 3. Sabbath School will begin at 9 a.m. and the morning worship service will begin at 11 a.m.

Anyone interested is invited to worship with the group.

SPEAKING OF SPORTS

By Wilbur Callaway

Roger Staubach, who has guided the Dallas Cowboys to a 9-2 record going into their Sunday afternoon contest against Philadelphia at Texas Stadium, is boasting a huge lead in balloting for the "Favorite Cowboy" of the year.

The ex-Navy great has a 1,872-vote margin over runnerup Drew Pearson, the versatile Cowboy wide receiver who is Staubach's favorite pass target, while defensive safety Charlie Waters is running a distant third in the voting conducted by Oak Farms Dairies.

Defensive end Harvey Martin has also been getting a lot of support in recent weeks and could get into contention before the season is over. Winner of the "Favorite Cowboy" voting will get an all-expenses-paid trip for two to Acapulco.

In addition, one fan participating in the voting will win two $1,000 Texas Stadium bonds. The winner will be determined by a drawing from among all votes cast throughout the season.

So far, 38 of the 45 players on the Dallas roster have received votes in the contest, along with several other people who are not on the roster, such as President Jimmy Carter, ABC-TV sports commentator Howard Cosell, Pittsburgh fullback Franco Harris, Los Angeles QB Joe Namath, Buffalo halfback O. J. Simpson and Minnesota QB Fran Tarkenton.

One Cowboy fan obviously likes defensive ends as a woman cast her vote for Ed Martin. Wonder if she meant Ed Jones or Harvey Martin?

Eagles zip by Grisham

Thursday was a good day for Georgetown Junior High's basketball teams as the boys took four victories over Round Rock Grisham and the girls beat Grisham in two outings.

The Eighth Grade "A" boys romped to a 60-42 victory, the Eighth Grade "B" boys won 26-9, the Seventh Grade "A" boys took a 49-20 win and the Seventh Grade "B" boys were 24-8 victors. The Eighth Grade "A" girls tripped Grisham 20-13 and the Seventh Grade "A" girls won 35-13.

"We did much, much better this time in the Eighth Grade boys varsity game," Coach John McMeans said. "We eliminated many of our errors, had fewer turnovers, lots of hustle and really got after it. We were proud of our effort and our team showed much improvement."

The Eagle boys will go to Round Rock Middle School Monday for "A" and "B" games in both the Seventh and Eighth Grades while the girls teams will host Round Rock Middle School for four games, starting at 5 p.m.

Linda McCalla was named to the District 12AAA All-District volleyball team as the only Georgetown to make the elite unit. The Eagles finished fifth in the district race with a 5-7 mark while Belton was 11-1, Round Rock 8-4, Del Valle and Westlake 7-5 each, Lockhart 3-9 and Taylor 1-11.

Georgetown High's exciting 75-74 win over Austin Crockett Tuesday night in the Eagle Gym, which boosted the Eagles to a 3-1 season record, could be a big psychological lift for Coach Dan Noll's team.

Crockett was no slouch, and indeed is rated as one of the top teams in District 26AAAA, and the fact that the Cougars had a 14-point lead over GHS at one time in the game is significant.

The Eagles had lost to Crockett earlier at Austin, 75-53, and could have folded up and let the Cougars run away from them again Tuesday night. But the Eagles came fighting back and captured a tough win which should build their confidence.

In fact, Southwestern University basketball coach John Edwards, who was watching the game from the stands, commented, "Georgetown won't be playing anybody this season any tougher than Crockett. And that includes Round Rock, which is the team everybody says is going to win 12AAA."

So perhaps the Eagles have a good shot at the 12AAA title if they continue to play the type of basketball they displayed against Crockett. One thing is for sure, there's not going to be any dull moments watching the Eagles this season — they play a fast-breaking offensive style which keeps the action hot and provides plenty of excitement.

provement."

Doug Jackson scored 21 points, Gilbert Valdez 12 and Joe Johnson 11 for the Eagles.

Pete Castaneda had eight points and Danny Anderson and Rudy Hatley six each for the 8th "B" team while Ronnie Keith scored 19 points and Kyle Turner 11 to spark the 7th "A" team. Danny Frias scored six points and Rex Baker, Gordon Shanklin and Allen Stark four each for the 7th "B" boys.

In the 8th "A" girls game, Lori Cosper had 12 points, Stacy Morgan seven and Julie Sanchez one while Tracy Faulkner got 10 rebounds. Bebe Martine scored 13 points, Karen Tabor and Susan Mersiosky six each, Paula Fisher and B. J. Chambers three each, and Anna Johnson and Tricia Fay two each for the 7th "A" girls.

The Eagle boys will go to Round Rock Middle School Monday for "A" and "B" games in both the Seventh and Eighth Grades while the girls teams will host Round Rock Middle School for four games, starting at 5 p.m.

Deer hunting not too good so far

ELUSIVE QUARRY — Big bucks like this one have been extremely hard to find during the first three weeks of the current deer hunting season with hunters reporting only an average to light kill. Few big racks have been taken but deer are reported to generally be in good shape and things should start picking up now that cold weather has reached the area.

Deer hunting in Williamson County during the first three weeks of the season has been only about average, according to Game Warden Mike Hutchinson, but is expected to pick up a little because of this week's cold weather.

"The kill has been average to light so far," Hutchinson says, "but the deer are out there. The hunters ought to be getting more deer as the season goes along."

The deer killed so far have generally been in fair shape but very few have boasted good antlers. "This seems to be the trend in Williamson County as well as the adjoining counties," Hutchinson says. "The ice houses have had a lot of deer turned in because of the warm weather and most of them are in pretty good shape."

The game warden also reported that hunting violations have been light this year, compared to recent years. "I think some of the big fines that have been handed out recently may have discouraged some hunters from violating the law," he added.

According to Texas Parks and Wildlife Department biologists, the good weather at the start of this deer season, plus a lot of deer in the traditional hunting areas, enabled the hunters to make a good kill the first couple of weekends.

Unlike last year, when the season started with ice and snow, the weather this time was dry and mild enough to lure a lot of hunters into the field.

In fact, the weather was too mild to suit some hunters, but in many areas the deer didn't need cold weather to keep them moving — the rutting season and hard-to-find forage did that.

As usual, body conditions of deer varied from county to county and region to region. In the famous Hill Country the deer were mostly lean, but some of the bucks had good antler development.

There were more bucks to shoot at this year in the Hill Country, biologists say, because of the relatively low harvest of bucks during last year's cold, rainy season.

Bucs prepare for SWT tilt

Southwestern University's Pirates, after taking on defending Lone Star Conference champion East Texas State Univ. here Saturday night, will have a week to get ready for another LSC foe, Southwest Texas State, in San Marcos Dec. 10.

It will be a return match for the Pirates and Bobcats, with Southwestern winning the opening round with a 83-81 victory in Georgetown Nov. 22.

Going into Saturday night's game, Southwestern owned a 3-2 record with wins over SWTSU, Texas Wesleyan and Arkansas Central and losses to Oklahoma State Univ. and Missouri Southern.

Eagle girls fall, 45-39

Georgetown High's girls dropped a heart-breaker to Austin Johnston in the first round of the Pflugerville Tournament Thursday, 45-39, after leading almost the entire ballgame.

The Eagles, now 4-2 for the season, were on top 22-16 at the half and 30-22 going into the final quarter before Johnston rallied to outscore Georgetown 23-9 in the final period to take the victory.

Denise Babicki scored 14 points, Karen Graham 13 and Lori Glass 12 for the Eagles while Lynette Saterfield, Celia Kennedy and Linda McCalla stood out on defense.

The loss dropped the Eagles into the consolation round of the 16-team tourney with a 9 a.m. game against Burnet Friday. Burnet lost its opening game in the tourney to Austin Anderson, 57-40.

Other opening round scores saw host Pflugerville crush Dripping Springs 93-28, Austin beat Salado 49-39, Austin Crockett whip San Antonio Southside 66-45 and Austin McCallum beat Smithson Valley 52-32.

Pirate women to host Hill

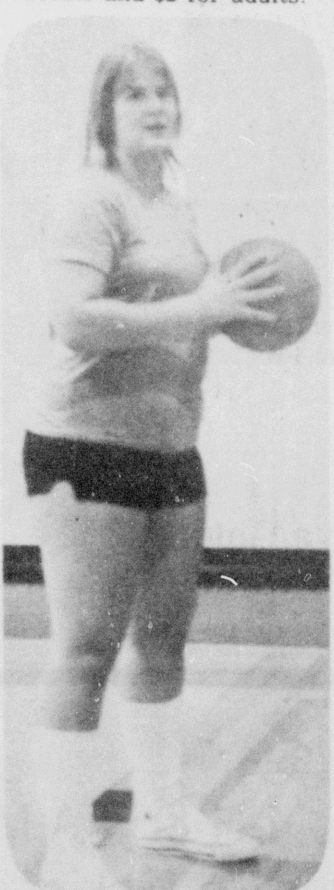

Southwestern University women's basketball team will play its first home game of the season Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. in the Sid W. Richardson Physical Education Center.

The Pirate women will be trying to avenge an earlier loss to Hill County Junior College when they take on the Hillsboro team. Hill County edged the Bucs 59-56 last week.

Southwestern, away from the homecourt advantage for its first three games plus the George West Invitational Tournament Dec. 1-3, will get to play the next three games in Georgetown.

After the Hill County game Tuesday, the Pirates play Navarro Junior College, a team that beat them 48-44 in Corsicana, Saturday at 7:30 p.m. The game after that will be with Trinity Univ. Dec. 14.

Admission is $1 for students and $2 for adults.

defeated Bastrop 57-49 Thursday in the first round of the Elgin Tournament.

"We were real ragged and did not play well at all," Noll says, "but we still managed to win, so I guess that is encouraging. We had been so high for the Crockett game earlier in the week that I guess we were flat for this one."

The Eagles led 26-21 at halftime and rode the 17-point scoring of Mark Edwards to the victory. Ronnie Wagner added 13 for the Eagles, who are now 4-1.

The victory over Elgin would put the Eagles into the tournament finals at 8 p.m. Saturday against either Gonzales or Dime Box, the other two semifinalists who were also scheduled to meet Friday. A loss to Elgin would find GHS playing at 5 p.m. Saturday.

Georgetown will be back in action at Eagle Gym Tuesday night against Copperas Cove.

Hutto's Nygrin playing at SU

By BILL DEFRIES

While observing a recent Hutto Hippo basketball game, I was reminded again, as I often am in my small-town coverage, of the city folks' opinion of small high school sporting events. Many wonder why I waste my time with "rinky-dink" Class B athletics when there are larger, more interesting stories at the more well-known schools.

Wrong!

Few people realize that an athlete is just that, regardless of where he comes from. I am sure that Southwestern University basketball coach John Edwards would not complain about the caliber of Tommy Johnson, who graduated from SU last year, after two years of participation there. Johnson was a 1973 graduate of, believe it or not, Hutto High School. Certainly the small school stigma didn't lessen his athletic ability.

But SU, in losing the basketball ability of Johnson, gained another Hippo. This person was a 1977 graduate of Hutto High School, having played basketball there since the sixth grade. The athlete is currently one of the leading scorers for the SU women's squad, and is in hot contention for a starting position.

She is Tanya Nygrin, and she has no qualms about coming from a small school. Women's coach Glada Munt seems also unconcerned with the fact that her hottest shooter is from Class B school in a town with 450 people. Why should she be? She's getting her money's worth out of the husky blonde, who's averaging 12 points per game and pulling in eight rebounds.

Hitting an average of around 45 percent from the field, Tanya, according to Munt, has some catching up to do, being unaccustomed to the full-court play of women's collegiate basketball. Munt added, "She has aggressiveness in her favor, and for that reason is quick to learn and always improving." Her team-mates insist on attributing the nickname of "tank" to the female cager from Hutto.

She says, "I really got a lucky break in getting to try out for the SU women's team." It seems that last year her Hutto cagers were playing Jarrell for the district title, and the game was being officiated by SU coach Bob Mallon. That game, the female Hippos won and Tanya broke the Hutto record for most points in a game, with 53. Mallon came back and told Munt, who contacted Tanya concerning SU women's basketball tryouts.

So Freshman Tanya Nygrin has a somewhat comfortable spot on the female Pirates squad, even despite the fact that her six years of experience came from a one-horse town. Currently, the only thing standing between her and a starting position is not high school caliber, but college experience.

But, people are hard to convince. Actually, the word is stubborn. And I'm sure that sometime, somewhere, someone will come up to me and say, "How do you imagine such a rinky-dink high school produced such a fine athlete?"

TWO FOR EAGLES — Georgetown High guard Mark Edwards drives in for a layup and two points as two Crockett Cougars, Larry Kruse (45) and Joe Collins (55) look on helplessly during their game Tuesday night at Eagle Gym. Edwards scored 23 points to spark the Eagles to an exciting 75-74 win over the powerful Cougars from Austin. (Photo by Wilbur Callaway)

SNOW AND SONGS

Karen and Richard Carpenter, three-time Grammy award-winners, put their special musical touch on some old favorites on "The Carpenters at Christmas," a special also featuring guests Harvey Korman, Kristy McNichol and puppeteer Burt Tillstrom with Kukla and Ollie, Friday, Dec. 9 on ABC.

TV Star Scene

Mini-series and made-for-TV movies are moving into a permanent slot at NBC. The net has decided to realign its Tuesday night schedule to accommodate such programming on a regular basis, beginning early in the year. Police Woman will be shuttled to Wednesdays to make room for the new batch. Among the offerings which haven't already been announced are: "Escape from Hell," starring Alan Arkin as a man desperately trying to win his release from a hospital for the criminally insane, after witnessing attacks by the guards on patients. David Janssen finds himself in a familiar boat with "Nowhere to Run," as he devises a blackjack system which will free him from his wife. "Legend at Sundown" stars Robert Forster and Chuck Connors in a two-hour film about a small rancher's (Forster) attempts to stay in business, despite Connor's unscrupulous methods of scaring him out. Ernest Borgnine and Gary Lockwood battle the "Ghost of Flight 401." And a different kind of ghost haunts Brad Dourif in "Sergeant Matlovich Vs. the U.S. Air Force," the fact-based story of an Air Force sergeant who fought to remain in the service after acknowledging his homosexuality.

More news on the NBC front, and good news it is for Black Sheep fans. Robert Conrad's series is back on the air starting Dec. 14, under a new title — The Black Sheep Squadron.

The name may be different, but the show's the same, with the regulars back in the skies, minus only James Whitmore Jr.. The opener guests Scott Hylands as a combat priest who battles Pappy (Conrad) over how to handle a pilot's fear of flying ... Tony Bill, who narrates the premiere of What Really Happened to the Class of '65, NBC's new Thursday night anthology series, will perform the same duty for each show. Cliff De Young is set to guest on an upcoming segment.

A cowpoke who's acted in westerns for three decades, Slim Pickens, has been signed for an installment of ABC's How the West Was Won

Now the kids can have a mini-series just like the grown-ups. ABC has gathered Claudia McNeil, John Cullum, Bob Christian, Lark Ruffin, and The Electric Company's Morgan Freeman in Clinton, Miss., for filming of "Roll of Thunder, Hear My Cry." The three-part film is based on Mildred D. Taylor's award-winning novel about a black family in the 1930s ... Another decade goes by, and we have Harlem in the 1940s as the backdrop for ABC's "Cindy," an all-black, musical Cinderella story. Newcomer Charlaire Woodard will play the young heroine who leaves a life of Southern poverty to join her father in New York, where she contends with evil step-sisters, Venus and Olive, and sets her sights on attending the fancy Sugar Hill Ball. Then there's the question of the missing sneaker. The special will be seen Dec. 18.

Critics may have called Sylvester Stallone the new Marlon Brando, but not so says the up-coming star of "F.I.S.T." "I find him to be an entirely different actor. He works from the inside out; I work from the outside in ... I think I relate to people a little bit differently. He is a very secretive, intensive person. I try to think of myself as more cool."

Of the movie, "F.I.S.T.," in which he plays a Teamster union boss, Stallone says:

"I work with the clothing first, then I work with the make-up, and eventually, as soon as the make-up goes on, my whole character would come out — and the voice. That works for me. Otherwise, when I work from the inside, it eats away, it tightens me up. I used to try to do the Method and I would walk on stage so tight that if I had to cut my throat the audience still wouldn't be with me. So I stay free and easy and let it all happen. And if it just doesn't happen, then I rework the scene; just take another approach." Acting students can now pick their sides.

MISSING WOMAN—I was under the impression that Police Woman would be on Tuesdays at 10:00 pm. So far it has not been on this fall. Has it been cancelled? Janet Dearth, Watertown, Ct.

Check your local stations, Janet. Police Woman is still being aired nationally by NBC, but it's possible your local affiliate is not carrying it this fall. The show has been moved to Wednesdays, though.

TV IN TROUBLE

Maureen Stapleton Stars in Family Reunion

By Winifred Elze

Things are not always what they seem, and this is especially true of television. Take "The Gathering," ABC's Christmas special which takes place in a typical, picturesque, Currier-and-Ives New England town. Maureen Stapleton, who stars with Ed Asner in "The Gathering," says, "We did it last winter outside of Cleveland in a place called Chagrin Falls ... a nice boys' undergraduate school ... We stayed somewhere out in the middle of nowhere."

"Chagrin Falls is a very, very pretty town. It did look exactly like a postcard of some New England town. They left up all the (Christmas) decorations in the town square, which was nice of them. It was cold out there. Fortunately, we liked each other, because we were all there was."

About "The Gathering," she says, "I haven't seen it. When you're working on something you don't get an overall picture." Her own role, she says, "is pretty straight. I play his (Ed Asner) wife. We're divorced -- no, not divorced: separated. I have grown children and grandchildren. She's a pretty straight lady."

"I play Ed Asner's estranged wife. He wants to have a reunion at Christmas time with his family ... Whenever I try to tell the bare skeleton of a story, I always feel like saying, 'Is that it, is that all? I'm not good at it.'"

The plot of "The Gathering" is based on the premise that Ed Asner, in his role as a successful businessman who has failed in his family relationships, learns that he is dying and wants to renew his family ties. He sends invitations to his children to come for Christmas, and at first all but one refuse. "In the script it works out," says Miss Stapleton. "They do evolve at the decision to come of their own volition. That is the part that is in the writing. It isn't that abrupt or that seemingly senseless."

Actress Maureen Stapleton finds a new meaning in Christmas when her estranged and terminally ill husband, Ed Asner, reunites the whole family for his last Christmas in "The Gathering."

"It's very well written," she said. "The oldest son, in the middle of the whole thing, realizes that his father is terminally ill. He and the mother reach an understanding. They don't discuss it, they just go right on ... Ed Asner is just terrific."

Miss Stapleton is now living in New York and working on a film. "I'm on call," she said. "I've only done two days' shooting in a couple of weeks. It doesn't have a title yet. We had a reading quite awhile back, but I haven't looked at it since. I've been waiting till we get closer to it. It's been rainy and cold -- we're shooting out on a beach in Southampton ... It will be a movie theatre film ... Woody Allen is directing it but he's not in it.

It's on location and I don't go unless I get a call. I'm sort of in limbo. I can't go anywhere because they might call and say they want me tomorrow."

Miss Stapleton has a long list of Broadway credits, the most recent of these being "The Secret Lives of Mildred Wilde." She has starred in the films "Miss Lonely Hearts," "A View from the Bridge," "Trilogy," "Airport," and "Plaza Suite." Her most recent television credits include "Tell Me Where It Hurts" and "Queen of the Stardust Ballroom."

In spite of her numerous successes, Miss Stapleton worries continually about money. "You only hear about the times a person works," she said. "But whether you're working or not, money is always outgoing. I've never been smart enough to invest it. Years ago I invested a lot and lost it all." When it comes to the stock market, she said, "You've gotta know what the hell you're doing. I sure didn't."

She has worked mostly in theatre, because "that's the way it worked out. Again, you have to work fairly continually -- in long runs, yet." Does she prefer theatre to the other media? "Not really. I'd have a preference if it were only four times a week instead of eight -- as you get older it gets harder."

Comparing theatre to films, she said, with theatre "you do it and it's over and you go home and you get two days off a week. There's a certain kind of pressure that's removed. In films, sometimes you have to sit around for hours. Each thing has its own good points and bad."

Miss Stapleton's own origins are in upstate New York. "I'm from Troy, New York. That's my part of the country," she said. "I like it very much. It's beautiful country. I have friends, my brother is still there. It looks good to me. Better and better, the more I live in New York."

Of the city, she says, "I don't like it like I did when I was a young kid ... It was exciting ... I love upstate New York. I think it's so beautiful."

Has her career worked out the way she expected it to? "Except for being rich, yeah."

She has no favorites among the parts she's played. "I like them all," she says. "I try not to have a favorite, because whatever you do, you'll always wish you were doing something else."

Her career, she feels, hasn't made any problems for her children. They got used to it, she says, because "that's what Mother does. I was home most of the time when they were growing up. I didn't work or I worked at night. For most of that time, I was always around."

Returning to the subject of "The Gathering," she said, "I had a lot of fun making it. We had a terribly good time -- one of the best. He's a delicious fella, Ed Asner."

CLASS OF '65

Anette O'Toole stars as a woman who had a particularly bad reputation among her fellow seniors in high school, but who is now supposedly happily married to Tim Matheson in "What Really Happened to the Class of '65," a new anthology series premiering Thursday, Dec. 8 on NBC.

Madcap Tim Conway

Clowns Around in Slapstick Flicks

By DAN LEWIS

"Hollywood doesn't have any clowns like they used to have in the old days," Tim Conway was saying the other day. He should know; he just won an Emmy for his antics on Carol Burnett's show.

"We don't have the likes of Harold Lloyd, and Buster Keaton, or W.C. Fields, whose personalities were strong enough to carry a movie," Conway continued. "I believe I can do it."

Conway plans to be the first great movie clown in a quarter of a century. He'll do it either by himself or with Harvey Korman, a la the immortal talents of Laurel and Hardy and Abbott and Costello.

In fact, he's even written a film called "They Went That Way and That Way." It's a prison spoof that will go into production in March in Atlanta. Conway is hoping that Korman, his longtime foil on the Burnett show, will be available for this film.

"I'd love to do something with Korman," Conway says of his former easy-target partner. "It depends where Harvey's at by that time. He's been out of television now, and that may be good for him. Harvey is one of the great comic actors, but he does everything so well that audiences accept him as an extension of the Burnett TV series and what he did on it. He's so good, people never identified him with what he is, but rather with what he played."

What Conway is looking to bring to the public is low-budgeted slapstick comedy. He's proved his capabilities in four Disney pictures, especially "The Apple Dumpling Game," which is the second largest grossing feature film at Disney. He co-starred in that one with Don Knotts; they'll pair again for a sequel, "Trail's End," next summer.

Conway is a busy man. He has a new, low-budget flick, "The Million Dollar Hobo," about to go into general release. Made independently for only $800,000, it's also being distributed independently. The same Atlanta-based group is financing "They Went That Way and That Way Way" but this time the budget will be $1.75 million.

It's an intriguing way to do movies, Conway contends, largely because it's old-fashioned, and cheap.

Stu McGowan, who used to write W.C. Fields movies; Roger Beatty, a

Tim Conway is serious about his clowning around; he is also serious about making a movie with Harvey Korman, his former foil from "The Carol Burnett Show."

Carol Burnett Show writer; and Conway collaborated on the script.

"We cut corners," Conway explained. "We didn't want to waste time for permits to shoot on Los Angeles streets. So I got an extra, dressed him as a cop and stood him alongside of a motorcycle. Squad cars came by and figured we had a permit."

Conway said they waited for property owners to leave their homes in the morning for work, then he'd bring his crew in to shoot on lawns. Or they shot night scenes in a gas station -- stealing in after the place closed.

"We didn't pay for sets," Conway said with a mischievous smile.

Conway is continuing on the Burnett show -- all 24 episodes. He rushed to New York for two days to do a commercial for a local bank. "I did it because it's fun, and it was local. I wouldn't have done it for a national commercial."

His feelings about producing for himself are motivated by a lack of G-rated films in release. "There's room for more than the five that Disney releases a year," Conway asserted.

It's the movie career that he is most interested in now.

"It just developed gradually over the last six or seven years," he noted. "I'm not going into competition with Disney. I just think there's room."

Does he ever consider doing some serious acting?

"Why?" he inquired. "I don't do it that well. Why disappoint audiences?

ANOTHER GUESS—In case Marlys Olson from Cavalier, N.D., wasn't satisfied with last week's answer about the high-strung comedian, we've got another opinion. The new guess for the name of the comedian who committed suicide a couple of years ago and bears a resemblance to Woody Allen, is — hope this one doesn't fail you — Wally Cox. Cox, who was Mr. Peepers, the voice of Underdog, and often sat in the upper left-hand corner on Hollywood Squares, died in 1973, at the age of 49. His eulogy was delivered by one-time roommate and long-time friend, Marlon Brando. In my defense let me say that I generally thought of Cox as an actor, not a comedian, and he was quite a bit older than Allen. Anyway, let that be an end to your desperation, now.

MR. CHIPS—I'd like to know a little about Erik Estrada who plays Ponch on the series, CHiPs. I think he is so good-looking. How old is he? What nationality is he? He also has beautiful white teeth; did he ever wear braces? A. Sylvers, High Point, N.C.

Your good-looking Erik Estrada is a 27-year-old Puerto Rican from the Bronx, N.Y. He changed his first name so as not to be typecast in Latino roles. He is, for your future reference, not married. As for his teeth — that's between him and his dentist.

GHOST CLASSIC—The Ghost and Mrs. Muir was recently re-run in our area. My family of eight viewers stayed up each night waiting to see this delightful show. It is cast to perfection! Where are Edward Mulhare and Hope Lange from? We think this show is a classic. Mrs. Gargulio, Miss.

Many readers agree with you about this show, unfortunately not enough watched it when it aired originally to save it. Edward Mulhare, the transparent captain, was born in 1923 in Ireland. His leading lady, Hope Lange, was born in 1933 in Ridge, Connecticut.

Over 40: A Show for the Prime Generation

Hugh Downs is the host of the new PBS show "Over Easy," the TV magazine which will broadcast nightly Monday-Friday for the prime generation.

"I've always felt that commercial television overemphasized the under-39 audience, and either ignored or neglected those who have entered upon what could be the most productive and rewarding years of all," says Jules Power, senior producer of "Over Easy."

"Over Easy" is a new show aimed specifically at those on the upward swing past 40. It has a magazine format, presenting celebrity interviews, consumer advice, creative lifestyles, public service news, and special features. As the first major daily television show directed toward the "prime generation," "Over Easy" is designed to entertain and to inform.

The show is hosted by Hugh Downs, who has the distinction of having put in more hours before national TV cameras than any other individual. In his long career, he has been a reporter, newscaster, announcer, commercial spokesman, disc jockey, interviewer, narrator and host.

Downs was host of the NBC-TV Network "Today" show for nine years. He resigned from the show, he says, in order to "move on to other things and additional interests, including writing, lecturing, teaching, private consulting in the communications field and future activities in television itself."

Downs is joined by a regular company of experts, including Dr. Carl Eisdorfer (medicine & psychology), Alma Lach (nutrition), Harriet Pilpel (law), Paul Nathanson (law), Barbara Gregg (consumerism), John Bryan (gardening), Narsai David (cooking), and Robert Binstock (public policy).

The "In Person" segment of the show consists of a daily interview with a celebrity, sometimes on location, sometimes before a studio audience. Well-known personalities to be seen and heard from on "Over Easy" include Lillian Carter, Milton Berle, Mr. and Mrs. Redd Foxx, Tennessee Ernie Ford, Margaret Mead, Robert Young, Roy Rogers and Dale Evans, Eartha Kitt, Senator Frank Church, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Albertson, Averill Harriman, Pat O'Brien, Jessica Mitford, Barbara McNair, Margaret Whiting, and Rosemary Clooney.

Information provided by "Over Easy" includes such subjects as your telephone: how to get the most for your money, how to get credit for wrong numbers, how to dial long distance for less. There will be tips on Medicaid, on shopping around for the best buys in prescription drugs, on mail order shopping: legal rights, refunds, to whom to complain, and time limits.

The show will present dishes to cook for one and tips on using free time. "Over Easy" will also spotlight individuals who, although they are not well-known, are leading interesting and productive lives.

According to the U.S. Census Bureau, "Nationally, the big age shift between now and the year 2,000 will bring a whopping 79 percent increase in the number of middle-aged Americans — the cutting edge of social change could well be controlled by Americans over age 65."

Power says, "I think a program such as ours can make some serious inroads into the stereotypes we've developed over the years. 'Over Easy' should help establish a renewed sense of self-worth on the part of its viewers. It should help change external images of the middle years and beyond. And it should provide useful information that can be of immediate value to a broad spectrum of the audience."

TV Dialogue

RASCALS—I have a bet going on with a friend. The bet is that I say Jackie Cooper played on The Little Rascals, and he says Cooper never played on the show. Can you settle this? Ricky Craner, Little Rock, Ark.

I hope you bet a lot of money on this, Ricky, because Jackie Cooper definitely appeared as one of the boys on The Little Rascals. The young curly-haired blond was — maybe this will spark your friend's memory — the love-sick admirer of the pretty grammar school teacher.

UP IN SMOKE—We would like to know who played Festus in the TV series Gunsmoke. Was it Ben Johnson? W.E. & L.S. Wilson, Calif.

Look again. Festus was played by Ken Curtis, not Johnson.

TERM PAPER— Could you help me out? I'm doing a term paper on Robert Redford and would like some information. Who played with Redford in the following: "Sunday in New York," "Tall Story," "The Highest Tree," and "Three Days of the Condor"? Kate Vanderminde, N.Y.

You'd better check your facts, before you hand in this paper. Redford was not in "Sunday in New York" nor "Tall Story." Both those films starred Jane Fonda. But Fonda co-starred with Redford twice, in "Barefoot in the Park" and "The Chase." As for "The Highest Tree," — that's even too obscure for me! But we do have some basic information that will fill out your report. In "Three Days of the Condor," Redford was paired of with Faye Dunaway. If you want to go way back, his leading lady was Natalie Wood in both "Inside Daisy Clover" ('66) and "This Property is Condemned" ('67). His very first movie was in 1962 with John Saxon. It was entitled "War Hunt."

DEAR SIR—Was there ever a movie called, "To Sir With Love"? T.R. Ms.

In 1967 Sidney Poitier starred in "To Sir With Love," the story in which he turns an unruly British secondary school classroom into one with caring and thinking people.

SOLUTION

This is a very busy weekend in our bustling community with the December Market Day, the Christmas Parade, the free blood pressure check, and the Christmas Ball Saturday evening. There really is always something going on in Liberty Hill!

Market Day activities will dominate the day from 9 a.m. until dark, and the usual array of interesting and tasty items will be available in the covered booths on Liberty Hill Square. Even Lenora and Jack of KGTV expressed their desire to drop by!

The American Heart Association of West Williamson County will be at the fire hall from 9 a.m. until noon, Saturday, December 3, giving blood pressure checks free of charge! Take time to go by. This couple of minutes it will take can save you a great deal of time and trouble later on!

The Panther Band Club's Christmas Ball will be held in the Liberty Hill school gym this evening from 8 p.m. until 12 midnight. Tickets will be available at the door for $2.50, which includes a buffet supper. This is a good way to get the Christmas season off to a good start while helping the Panther Band Club raise funds to be used in purchasing tape recorders to be used by the band in their continuing to achieve perfection.

On Monday evening, December 5, at 7:30, the annual stockholders meeting of the Liberty Hill Water Supply Corporation will be held in the Liberty Hill Elementary School Cafeterium. Every stockholder should be here in person or have a proxy properly executed by contacting Roy Allman, Joe Ed Canady, or a member of the Board of Directors so his vote can be cast. Mark your calendar and be there!

The Liberty Hill girls varsity basketball team lost a painfully close game last Tuesday evening when they dropped a game to Lago Vista by 38-37 in the last two minutes of the game. The girls are continuing to improve getting a little better with each passing game. The offense was much better in the game against Lago Vista, and the guards did a fine job. Because the girls will probably convert to five member basketball next year, the guards and forwards are switched around as needed. The junior varsity game was cancelled by Lago Vista due to a lack of a team.

The Liberty Hill boys' varsity basketball team was victorious at Lago Vista last Tuesday evening by 49-36, in a game which was close until the fourth quarter. Lago Vista led at halftime by 24-21. Good hustle and great defensive play in the last half enabled the Panthers to convert some costly Lago Vista turnovers into some quick baskets to break the game open.

Robert Stephens and Donnie Johnson scored 19 and 18 points respectively, followed by 4 points each from Mark Walker, Roy Montemayor, year. The seventh graders won both of their games, but the eighth graders lost despite the good effort. The first seventh grade game saw an aggressive man-to-man defense produce many turnovers as we won by 20-16. The high point man was Jay Linebaugh with 6 points. Other scorers were Quint Williams, and John Pina with 4 points each, Jimmy Forbes, Pat Holbrook, and Paul Sessler with 2 points each. Other players who did well though not scoring were Phil Milligan, and Don Lee.

The second game was really close with the Panthers winning by 21-20. The high point man was John Pina with 6 points, followed by Jimmy Forbes with 5, Jay Linebaugh and Quint Williams each making 4, and Jay Lopez made 2. Other players who saw action were

In both of the eighth grade games Liberty Hill was cold and missed numerous shots.

In the first game several players got in foul trouble early, and Leander took advantage of this to win by 36-24. Harvey Holbrook led all of the scorers with his 9 points as Mitch Walker got 8, Edward Pina got 3, Mark Sullins and Dannie Lindsey each got 2. Other players in the game were Jessie Garrett, Jim Briggs, Jerry Floyd, Mike Schwabe, Marty Hicks, Harold Loehr, Brian Kirk, Mack Williamson, and William Haight.

The second game produced better effort from the players when the Panthers were within 6 points at the half but fell behind farther in the second half. They lost by 44-32. Mitch Walker played a good game as he scored 21 points and got many rebounds. Edward Pina got 7 points and Danny Lindsey got 4.

evening by 35-32. The game was very close all evening and with less than a minute on the clock Tony Lovelady stole the ball, made a lay up and put the Panthers ahead for the evening.

The high point scorers for the evening were Marvin Cantrell with 19 points, Todd Linebaugh made 6 points. Top rebounders were Todd Linebaugh with 9 and Steve Loyd with 6.

Leaflet, film on drowning is available

A leaflet and a film on drowning are available from the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department.

The leaflet entitled "20 to 60 Seconds" tells why some 600 persons die in Texas every year in water-related accidents, and what could be done to reduce this toll.

A drowning nonswimmer can usually stay afloat only 20 to 60 seconds, and rescuing the nonswimmer presents a considerable number of problems for the rescuer.

These problems also are presented in the 16mm sound and color film, "Drowning: Facts and Myths," produced by Frank Pia, chief lifeguard at Orchard Beach, New York. Any organization may borrow the film and pay only the cost of return transportation. Requests should be mailed to: Film Library, Texas Parks and Wildlife Department, 4200 Smith School Road, Austin, Texas 78744. Literature requests should be sent to the Literature Distribution office at the same address.

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

Early churches used steeples to make the building higher than all others in the city. People could see God's House from any direction, and could easily find their way to a place of worship. Today, with many office buildings towering into the sky, churches are not always the tallest buildings. However, churches still point the way to God, and provide a place of worship.

Anyone who has not experienced their first Thanksgiving Day alone has no idea how lonely and forlorn you can feel. The day was dreary and foggy. After reading every inch of the paper, I went to the cafe for lunch; it was almost empty, then a ride around town to see the many places where they were having reunions, then to the cemetery and to visit a friend who also lives alone. It was hard not to feel sorry for myself until I remembered many were worse than I and how thankful I was for the many friends and relatives who faithfully stood by me the past 18 trying months. Then things were brighter; two friends brought me a delicious supper and told me they came to get me to eat lunch with them but I was gone. Then we had our Thanksgiving Sunday when Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur C. Love, Mrs. Bobby Wright and Bill Love of Austin came. Though there was a vacant place at the table, it was nice. Had a pleasant surprise in the afternoon when Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Watson and Joe S. Watson of Corpus Christi came. So one of the most miserable days of my life is a thing of the past.

Mrs. Gene Milton, Mrs. Pearl Hopkins and Mrs. Alma Carroll of Killeen visited in the Ashabanner home Sunday.

C. L. Northen was in Georgetown on business Monday morning.

Mrs. M. H. Satterfield was shopping in Georgetown Monday.

They are Mrs. Gondola Oslearn of Stillwater, Ok.; Mrs. Nola Morgan of Flippen, Arkansas; Mrs. Ruth Nolen, Holdenville, Ok.; Mr. and Mrs. Paul B. Marshall of Stillwater, Ok.; Mrs. Baster is Ruth's daughter. Also present were her two daughters, husbands and children, two brothers, Don and Raymond Marshall, were unable to attend the Thanksgiving festivities. One brother, Walter, is deceased.

Mrs. Ira Brooking spent the past week with her daughter and family in San Antonio.

Mrs. Bryce Duncan McCray was in Georgetown on business Tuesday.

Liquor by-the-drink sales will begin Jan. 1 in Thrall

The first permit to sell liquor by-the-drink in Williamson County since prohibition began in the 1920's was approved by the Texas Alcoholic Beverage Commission Thursday, said commission officer Joe Saegert.

The permit was to be presented to Weylan Brunken at his "What's Your Beef?" restaurant in Thrall late Friday afternoon.

Thrall residents approved sales of liquor by-the-drink within the city limits of Thrall in a local option election last summer.

The state permit fee for the sale of mixed drinks is $2,000 the first year, $1,500 the second year, $1,000 the third year and $500 for each year after that, said Saegert.

GED tests scheduled

G.E.D. (General Education Development) tests will be given at Georgetown High School, 1701 Austin Ave., from 8 a.m. to 12 noon on Saturday, December 10.

After the third year, both the city of Thrall and Williamson County can each collect $250 per year from a liquor by-the-drink establishment.

The permit will be effective on January 1, said Saegert.

Play continues for three days

After a popular opening here Friday and Saturday, "Jacques Brel Is Alive and Well and Living in Paris" will continue for three more days at Southwestern University Dec. 8-9-10.

The unique dessert theatre production begins at 8 p.m. each evening in Alma Thomas Theatre at the University, and director Fred Goodson suggests that reservations be made since seating is limited.

"play." Brel is a collection of some 25 songs by Jacques Brel, famed Belgian-born composer-poet, whose works range from biting satire to tender, universally appealing love songs.

Admission is $3, or for those with Mask & Wig season tickets, an additional $1 for coffee or tea and dessert. For reservations, call the office of the Dean of Fine Arts at Southwestern, 863-6511, ext. 329.

4-H Horse Club involves youth

The Georgetown 4-H Horse Club will sponsor a horse show Saturday, December 10, in the new show barn in San Gabriel Park in Georgetown beginning at 9 a.m.

There will be 41 different classes ranging from halter classes for mares, geldings and weanlings, individual quarterhouse classes and performance classes including English, western, reining and trail. Timed events are also scheduled.

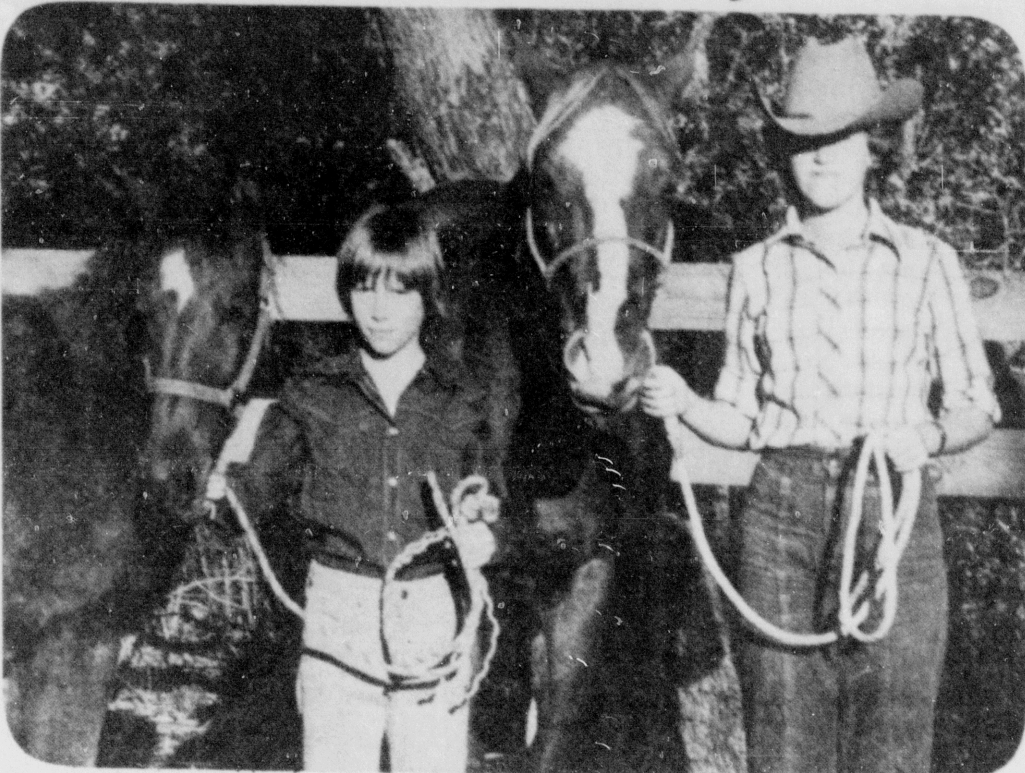

"The main purpose of this show," adult program leader Linda Koprowski said, "is to promote the new show barn, introduce 4-Hers to the show ring and to give them an opportunity to see and compete with other breeds of horses."

The Georgetown 4-H Horse Club is an active group boasting 65 members from the ages of 9 to 19. "It is a family club," Koprowski said, "and that is one of the reasons it is constantly growing."

Youth member officers of the club are president Carol Peschel, vice president Kristi Koprowski, secretary Catherine Merrill and treasurer Andrea Weisberg. Some of the activities involving the youth are lectures, field trips, trail rides, rallies with other area 4-H horse clubs and demonstrations presented by expert riders.

The increased activity of the club is in part due to the interest of the club's adult leaders. "Last year we found that only one or two of our members would go to state level competition," Koprowski said, "because our kids weren't as sophisticated and knowledgeable at shows as other youths."

So, Koprowski and the other adult leaders set out to change all that. They have created interest in the club, doubled its membership and is now promoting open shows of their own. Adult president Bill Miller, vice president Douglas Glover, secretary Jeannette Miller and Koprowski work hard scheduling activities and shows with the youth members.

A recent demonstration of horses and horsemanship at the Kenneth McCalla arena on Hwy. 29 west of Georgetown, illustrated particular breeds of horses and styles of riding that many area youths are not familiar with. These demonstrations are especially helpful in preparing young riders for the show ring. Judy Connolly, Dr. Jim Fricke and Dr. Carolyn Fricke, with their daughters Pam and Karen, represented the Austin Arabian Horse Club and presented a demonstration of dressage, side saddle, English pleasure, and western pleasure, particularly showing the versatility of the Arabian horse.

The support of the Austin Arabian Horse Club toward the youth group in Georgetown has been tremendous, Koprowski says, and she added that many of the Austin members will be entering events in the December 10 show here in Georgetown.

"The Austin Arabian Horse Club members have built a great deal of enthusiasm in our local club," Koprowski said, "both by the demonstration and by supporting our coming show."

The judge for the December 10 show will be L. A. Richardson of Cross Plains, an owner and judge of both quarter horses and Arabians.

A large part of the activity of the 4-H Horse Club is classes held two Saturdays each month for club members. Carol Light teaches a basic horsemanship class twice each month and 20 youths participate on a regular basis.

On the same Saturdays Marvin Harding instructs the members on the fine points of halter showing.

The local club also has its own judging team and their adult leader is Monte Walton. Twelve members actively participate and are learning to judge the conformation of different breeds of horses.

For the first time ever the Georgetown 4-H Horse Club will hold an awards banquet this coming year to honor all the members with project books and worksheets. It should be a festive occasion.

Wool clothing saves energy

Wool traps warmth, sheds water and can save energy, says Marlene Odle-Kemp, clothing specialist.

Wearing apparel that uses wool fiber makes cold weather and lower thermostats more tolerable, she says.

"Unlike other fibers, wool has a natural crimp which holds air in the fabric and provides a warm insulation, so wearing many thin layers of wool clothing traps more air and gives even more warmth.

"Wool's ability to shed rain drops before they penetrate the fabric is another unique quality," the specialist says.

Christmas music featured at SU

Christmas music will be the featured attraction at Southwestern University Sunday.

The "Messiah" will be presented at 4 p.m. by the University Chorale, the Southwestern Singers, and the University Orchestra in Alma Thomas Theatre.

And then at 7:30 p.m. the University's Extraordinaires and Band will perform in the informal Tree Trimming program to be held in Bishops Memorial Union.

About 80 singers in the combined groups, under the direction of Kenny Shepard, and the orchestra directed by Tom Douglass, will perform part of the "Messiah" plus three choruses—"All We Like Sheep Have Gone Astray," the "Hallelujah" chorus, and "Worthy Is The Lamb" and the "Amen" chorus.

Soloists will include Stephanie Dory, Karen Lambert, Tanya Gode, Cynthia Rogers, Nathan Johnson and Mike Houston.

The traditional Tree Trimming will feature lively Christmas music by the band directed by Dr. George Nelson and the Extraordinaires directed by Barbara Thomas. In addition to their music, there will be sing-alongs and other audience participation.

The public is especially invited to these Christmas season events. Admission is free to both programs.

Austin Symphony Sunset Concert slated Dec. 18

DR. MORRIS BEACHY

The Sunday before Christmas won't be a silent night for thousands of Central Texans who gather at Municipal Auditorium for the free Austin Symphony Sunset Concert of Christmas Carols, a gift from Austin Savings.

The fourth annual concert, featuring members of the Austin Symphony and Choral Union and the Coro D'Amici Chorus under the direction of Dr. Morris Beachy, will begin promptly at 4:30 p.m., December 18. The American Federation of Musicians Performance Trust Fund is assisting Austin Savings in sponsorship.

"Christmas is Coming" is the theme of the concert that combines such old favorites as "Joy to the World," "Silent Night, Holy Night," "The First Noel" and "O Come All Ye Faithful" with Tchaikovsky's "The Nutcracker Suite" and Gerald Finzi's "In Terra Pax."

Solosists for the evening are Diane Guthrie, soprano, and Russell Gregory, recently chosen, along with only five other groups in the nation, to record Christmas music for the Book of the Month Club. His Coro D'Amici Chorus, which he personally assembled about five years ago from singers in the community, has made appearances throughout the states and Europe under his direction.

Beachy is an Honorary Professional Fellow in Wales, has guest conducted the National Welsh Choral and participated in musical seminars and workshops throughout Europe.

Wayne Riddell, President and Chairman of the Board of Austin Savings, said that all individuals, entire families, and groups from public and private organizations and institutions are invited to attend the concert. It is free of charge to everyone, and no reservations are necessary.

"Attendance at the concert has produced a standing room only crowd since we began four years ago," said Riddell. "Our first program was simply an effort to share some of the tradition of Christmas with people from all sectors of Austin and surrounding area. We didn't know what kind of response we'd have during the busy holidays when we started, but the auditorium has been filled every year," he said.

How to pan broil pork — (1.) Place meat in heavy frying pan. (2.) Do not add fat or water, do not cover. (3.) Cook slowly, turning occasionally. (4.) Pour fat from pan as it accumulates. (5.) Brown meat on both sides. (6.) Season, if desired. Serve at once.

Apples, peaches, pears and bananas turn brown if they are allowed to stand after having been cut or peeled. To minimize discoloration, dip these fruits into citrus fruit juice (lemon, lime, orange or grapefruit) — or pineapple juice.

The most economical source of vitamin B1 in the food supply is potatoes.

cession and office area, putting in bleachers and materials for livestock pens, heating and air conditioning and furnishings for the concession and office area.

All the money spent by the association has come from donations from county residents.

SATURDAY, at the livestock sale, two heifers will be auctioned off and one will be raffled off to raise additional money for the association.

Kaatz has donated a ¼ Chianina, ¼ Angus heifer and the C&D Ranch in Florence has donated a ½ Charolais, ½ Angus heifer. Both will be auctioned off Saturday.

ALFRED LIARDON of Georgetown has donated a registered Hereford heifer, 20 months old, that will be raffled off Saturday.

"We are also still actively seeking pledges," said Kaatz.

Deadline set for javelina applications

Deadline is 5 p.m. Dec. 12 for applications to hunt javelina on the Black Gap Wildlife Management Area in Brewster County.

The Texas Parks and Wildlife Department will hold a drawing at 10 a.m. Dec. 15 at Austin to select the 84 hunters who will participate in the Jan. 14-19 hunt.

The 100,000-acre Black Gap Area is located in the rugged Big Bend country about 55 miles south of Marathon on FM 2627.

Instructions and application cards are available from department regional and district offices or from the headquarters at 4200 Smith School Road, Austin, Texas 78744.

Successful applicants will be required to pay a $3.00 fee to defray the cost of conducting the hunt. Hunters must be at least 12 years of age to participate, and those between 12 and 17 must apply as a member of a party and not as a single applicant.

Department officials point out that the public hunt is not necessarily indicative of a high javelina population, and the department retains the right of cancelling permits, altering bag limits, or stopping the hunt at any time the recommended quota is met to prevent the reduction of javelina below desired numbers. Bag limit for the hunt will be one javelina per hunter, and hunters will be limited to two days hunting.

door teenage center, but we just couldn't find the money," he added. "But we are putting in valves for future solar heating and someday we might be able to build more on to the complex."

Swimming, which is not a part of the GHS program now, is expected to be instituted next year with the pool to be used for this purpose. "We would like for the high school to take over supervision of the pool," Doering says.

THE COUNCILMAN pointed out that the pool in San Gabriel Park is far too crowded at present and has not been available for teaching swimming. Now, he feels that it can be used mostly for teaching since the new pool should draw most of the area swimmers.

The new pool complex will be located just across from the Booty's Road cutoff from Williams Drive (the Andice Highway), a couple of miles northwest of Georgetown. It is located on two acres of land donated to the city by SCB Development Company.

Any businessmen or individuals interested in furnishing a portion of the remaining $17,500 needed for the project are urged to contact Doering right away. Mayor John Doerfler pointed out recently that the people of Georgetown "should be able to have the opportunity to take part in this project." So this is your chance. Don't miss it.

recharged by thousands of sprinklers watering thousands of fertilized lawns, or even more easily by septic tank runoff."

Williamson County septic tank ordinances are not being policed at all.

GO TO CEDAR PARK, where a real estate salesman will tell you that people put in their own "versions" of septic tanks — like big steel drums — all the time. They don't register with the County Health Department to escape paying a fee.

But even a legal septic tank is not good enough, according to Woodruff. Extremely pervious areas like the Edwards Plateau, he says, need extremely fortified septic tanks. "You must put in special absorption fields," he says. "You can have septic tanks on top of aquifers but you have to make them especially good," he contends.

If they're not, several things can happen. We can pollute the underground aquifer so badly that it will take centuries to clean out. We have already created suburban developments that smell to high heaven every time it rains. We can let the pollution from septic tanks percolate (I see it doing a little rhumba) over the North Fork Lake, which could be turned into a slimy pond. (Pollution travels sideways as well as up or down.)

Danger Two, and I quote Woodruff: "The area along Balcones Escarpment is the locus of the greatest frequency of flood-producing storms in the United States. These new dams may very well not hold the really big floods. The bad thing about dams is that people get a false sense of security from them, and build homes and businesses below them. That is exactly what happened in the 1973 Canyon Dam disaster, where people living 18 miles downstream were flooded out."

"THIS IS WHY you should always have the caveat that nature can and does produce extraordinary events that will get you whether you are dammed or not. And this particular place is one where it can really get you."

What to do? Build the dam, but guard our backs. Don't let people build in low-lying places on the flood plains below the dam. That way, we will at least be safe, not sorry.

The Yuki Indians of California counted on the spaces between their fingers, not their fingers.

Fourth burglary suspect arrested

The fourth suspect, a Georgetown resident, believed to be involved in the early morning burglary of the Gibson's Discount Center in Lakeaire Shopping Center in Georgetown Wednesday was arrested in Austin and transferred to the Williamson County Jail on charges of burglarizing a business.

Bruce Alan Smith, 18, of 805 Serenada Drive in Georgetown joined 24-year old James William Butt, 18-year old Mark Denis Butt and 20-year old Richard Denis Caffey, all of Austin in the local jail Wednesday morning. A $5,000 bond was placed on each.

The charges of burglary were filed on the two Butt brothers and Caffey following their arrest by Georgetown Police Department officers along the southbound lane of IH 35.

The three suspects allegedly stole more than $8,000 worth of firearms, watches, stereo equipment, records, tapes, ammunition and drugs.

Smith was arrested in Austin by the Austin Police Department, who notified Williamson County authorities that they had reason to believe a large number of guns had been stolen from a store in the area.

One of the four suspects allegedly hid in the Gibson's store until after closing when he then let his accomplices enter through the rear door of the building.

At 2:38 a.m. Wednesday GPD officer Rudy Aleman noticed a 1966 model Ford

Mustang fastback parked at the rear entrance to Gibson's with the motor running while he was patrolling the area.

He requested a back-up unit. Aleman, Parks and Wildlife officer Mike Hutchison and officer Don Wood secured the outside of the building, turned off the vehicle's engine and removed the keys.

Officers from the Cedar Park Police Department and the Williamson County Sheriff's office assisted the local police in surrounding the building. Upon entering they found evidence of a burglary but no suspects inside the store.

The apartment occupied by the Butt brothers at 1200 Broodmoor in Austin was searched by Sgt. H. Hicky of the APD and Georgetown Sergeant Robert Hernandez, who found a number of guns, ammunition and other items identified as being stolen from the local business.

The 1966 Ford Mustang, allegedly used in the burglary, had been reported to GPD on November 28 by an employee at Lakeaire who told officers that the vehicle, which was occupied by three or four males, had been circling the store in a suspicious fashion. Again on Tuesday, November 29, the Mustang was cited by officer Aleman who observed the car at 11:38 p.m. on Golden Oak Drive then in the parking lot in front of the 7-Eleven adjacent to Lakeaire Shopping Center.

Even though both guns and ammunition were allegedly taken during the heist, the suspects were not armed when arrested.

County 50th in receipts for travel

Williamson County received $11,772,400 of the State's $6,075,952,000 travel receipts in 1976, a national study commissioned by the Texas Tourist Development Agency has disclosed.

The county's share ranked 50th among the state's 254 counties.

The 1976 figure reflect an increase of 14 percent in travel receipts over 1975 when Williamson County's travel business accounted for $10,343,000.

In addition to gross receipts, the study found that Williamson County in 1976 had 448 of the state's 227,258 travel-related jobs with an annual payroll of $2,335,600.

It also estimated $468,100 in state and $127,100 in local taxes were paid by county visitors in 1976.

The study was done by the U. S. Travel Data Center in Washington, D.C., an independent travel research organization funded jointly by public and private sectors.

It was based on the Center's Travel Economic Impact Model which breaks out a state's share of the national travel market on a county-by-county basis.

The model measures the economic impact of all travel involving overnight trips away from home, and day trips at least 100 miles or more from home. Thus it includes travel by Texans as well as out-of-state visitors, for all purposes.

It includes estimates of the traveler's spending at home in preparation for the trip, his spending en route, and that at his destination.

Basic data for the model comes from the National Travel Survey, conducted every five years by the U. S. Census Bureau, and from the Center's own National Travel Expenditure Model.

It was the latter which estimated that in 1975 Texas had dislodged New York for third place in the nation's travel industry. The 1976 figures, however, show Texas back in fourth place behind California, Florida, and New York.
